

Robin Fogarty & Associates

present

The Other Side of the Report Card

SEL: Social Emotional Learning

SEL: Social Emotional Learning is about people caring as much about another person's success as much as they care about their own.

The “other side of the report card”, traditionally refers to “deportment”...behavior, attitudes, dispositions, self-awareness, social skills, relationships, leadership and a general set of “soft skills” that encompass morality, trustworthiness, integrity and responsibility to self and others. In today's curriculum we call this SEL or social, emotional learning, integrated through a set of SEL Standards. Wiggins, (2015), nominates, empathy, as the all-encompassing concept that captures the essence of character qualities targeted in the K12 curriculum. Based on SEL standards and expert voices in the field, the professional learning reconstructs, “the other side of the report card”, for next generation citizens.

Objectives and Outcomes:

- SELF: Strategies for Goal-Setting and Self-Regulation
- OTHERS: Empowerment Through Compassion / Empathy
- SOCIAL: Etiquette Techniques Collaborative Social Skills

Book: Metacognition: The Neglected Skill Set to Empower Students-Fogarty & Pete-Hawker
Brownlow Education